

1. Results of the Questionnaire Survey on PAJ

The National Center for Industrial Property Information and Training (NCIPI), with the aim of further improving the quality of Patent Abstracts of Japan (PAJ), conducted a questionnaire survey targeting 95 intellectual property offices (or related organizations) that have received PAJ. Thank you very much for your cooperation.

The summary of the survey results is shown below.

Survey period August to September 2005

Recipients of PAJ (paten offices, libraries, and other public agencies overseas)

Survey results

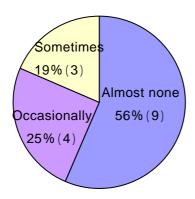

(1) Response rate

The NCIPI sent the questionnaire to 95 intellectual property offices (or related organizations), and obtained responses from 16 offices. The response rate was 17%.

(2) Questions concerning English translations of PAJ *() is figure of response

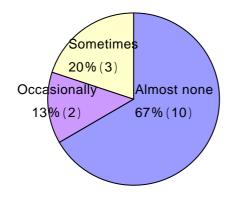

In response to the question "Do you find any incorrect use of the technical terminology translations in PAJ?", 56%(9) offices chose "Almost none," 25%(4) offices "Occasionally," 19%(3) offices "Sometimes," and "Frequently" was not selected (see Figure 1).

In response to the questions "Do you find any clumsiness in the English expression translations in PAJ?", 67%(10) offices chose "Almost none," 13%(2) offices "Occasionally," 20%(3) offices "Sometimes," and "Frequently" was not selected (see Figure 2).

In response to the question "Do you find any basic grammatical errors in the English translations in PAJ?", 60%(9) offices chose "Almost none," 13%(2) offices chose "Occasionally," 27%(4) offices "Sometimes," and "Frequently" was not selected (see Figure 3).

In response to the question "What improvements would you like to see in PAJ in the future?", we have received the users' requests which included "Provision on English translation for the whole patent publications", "Indication on the legal status of patent applications", "Indication on working example of the patent inventions" and so on. However, we have already provided some of the information with users on the IPDL. Please refer to the following instruction.

(Screen of PAJ search" in IPDL)

Please access the following URL; http://www.ipdl.ncipi.go.jp/homepg_e.ipdl

And please enter "PAJ search".

IPDL has "the legal status information" and "automatic Translation function".

You can inspect legal status, for example, whether examination is requested or not.

(These legal status information are not input in the ordinal PAJ CD-ROM.)

If you click "DETAIL", the original Japanese publication of displayed PAJ is automatically translated in English. The text part of the original publication is translated.
