The INPIT sets forth the following certain rules to ensure that IPDL is used for proper purposes.

1. Retrieval at IPDL
   IPDL is designed to allow retrievals and usage of basic information on industrial property rights in a standard manner. Therefore, the available contents and retrieval functions are limited to basic ones. For sophisticated retrievals or access to high value-added information (so-called professional use), it is recommended to use the services offered by commercial (private-sector) patent information providers.

2. Restriction on massive accesses and robot accesses
   IPDL is intended for use by the general public. Therefore, it is prohibited to download massive amounts of data or to access the data by robot access (periodical data collection through a computer program) with the objective of collection of information, as this might hinder the accesses of the general public. Please note that if such actions are discovered, access to IPDL will be restricted without warning.
   Bulk data may be purchased from the INPIT at marginal cost. The INPIT offers the JPO's data on DVD-R, CD-R and MT.

3. Hyperlinks to IPDL
   Hyperlinks to IPDL are allowed in principle. If you set up a hyperlink, please let us know at Information Provision Department, INPIT (Tel: +81-3-3581-1101(ex.2413) or E-mail: PA0670@inpit.jpo.go.jp).
   However, the hyperlinks are not allowed if:
   1) the contents of the website are offensive to public order and morals;
   2) the contents of the website violate or may violate laws or ordinances, etc.: or,
   3) the hyperlinks are set up in the way that suggest IPDL is not a free service by the INPIT (For example, hyperlinks that display IPDL within a frame or that suggest IPDL is a fee-based service.).
   Please be sure to indicate clearly that the link is directed to the INPIT website when you set up the hyperlinks.

4. Copyright
   The information offered by IPDL is protected under the Copyright Law; however, citation and reprint of the material is permitted in principle provided that the following conditions are met:
   1) this site must be identified as the source of information, and
   2) the material may not be altered.
   As for the Journal of Technical Disclosure published by the Japan Institute of Invention and Innovation, person or company who discloses the article in the Journal holds copyright. Please take necessary steps before you use the copyrighted materials in the Journal.
   As for the CSDB (Computer Software Database) search, original documents and abstracts are copyrighted works and they are provided under permission by the copyright holders. Please be noted that offering or making available to any third party (including specific majority) of such copyrighted work in any form may result in copyright infringement.

5. Disclaimer
   The INPIT makes every effort to offer accurate information through IPDL and updates the contents to the latest version, but the JPO and the INPIT shall not be held liable for any damages caused by errata, missing characters, omission or errors in the information, or delays in updating the information from the date of disclosure until it becomes accessible, or any other damages caused by using the information offered by IPDL.
   The result of retrieval in IPDL does not necessarily guarantee that the invention, design or Trademark has patentability or register-ability.

6. Revision
   The information offered by IPDL is subject to revision without prior notice. For any inquiries concerning IPDL, please contact IPDL Help Desk by telephone, FAX, or E-mail. IPDL Help Desk is open from 9AM to 9PM (Mon-Fri):
